

Essay: typical errors

More lyrics!

Lyrics captures the reader. He will be very interested to know how you came to life as beautiful as the sunset in your small homeland, how great . More ancient epithets, more metaphors and comparisons - it will surely be appreciated. If they get it right. Of course, if you get lazy and ask professionals to write my essay for cheap and high quality, you may not use these tips. But it is still better to understand the basics of writing an essay.

The bigger the introduction, the better.

Be sure to tell the reader about your life, who your parents and grandparents were, and what pushed you to the topic of the essay. The introduction, taking half a text, will certainly intrigue the reader.

Do not concretize anything. General words - your everything!

And in general, you need more water and stamps. Talk about how important it is that you went to study as a teacher, translator, engineer, manager, in what a wonderful place is your university, office or city, how great it is if the world ends wars. Ask to write about what you would like to change in your university? Be sure to tell us about teacher training and salary increases, new repairs, or deepening the curriculum. Do not give any specific names or facts.

More facts!

Can't you make an elephant out of a mosque? Go from the opposite - fill the essay with facts. Names, dates, research results, city and world news - everything will go. Your reader will surely be amazed by your erudition and ability to work with information. Make your conclusions shorter - you are writing for academicians who are able to find logic and summarize the results themselves.

The longer sentences, the smarter the author looks.

Remember the classics and their suggestions with half a page? You can do the same - the syntax in the school was all passed, and it's not difficult to use the involved and non-private turns after a little practice. Use as many smart and simply long words as possible, build large and lengthy sentences. So you will be very smart in the eyes of the reader. The reader will be simply frightened after the first paragraph and will close your essay, disappointed in his own intellect.

Never, under any circumstances, reread your text.

Chukcha is not a writer, Chukcha is a reader. You wrote not for yourself, but for others, so let these others read your essays and admire your talent. It doesn't matter at all how many "fleas" the reader will catch in your text, or how logical the presentation will seem to him. You are a talent that does not need proofreading and editing. That's all.

Follow these tips, and you will be able to write the most "brilliant" opuses. Perhaps they will even be saved in memory. Write by the rules or order an essay from a pro.
